

Socialists Bar Members From Cuno's Cabinet

Caucus To-day Is Expected to Affirm Executive Committee's Decision, Wrecking Chancellor's Efforts

Party in Violent Mood

Prepared to Meet Any Onslaught on the Part of Organized Reaction

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Socialists' efforts to form a ministry were temporarily wrecked late this afternoon, when the executive committee of the Socialist party voted to prevent any member of the People's party participating in it. This decision is deemed certain to be affirmed by a caucus of the Socialist delegation in the Reichstag tomorrow.

Two caucuses will then face the Reichstag. One is to restore the old coalition under Wirth or some other leader acceptable to the Socialists, Centrists and Democrats; the other is dissolution of the Reichstag and calling of a general election. The latter move seems to-night extremely improbable.

Socialists in Fighting Mood

The success of the Labor party in the Reichstag elections, combined with growing manifestations of discontent among the German working classes, amounting to some places to popular disorders, has roused the united Socialist party to fighting temper, and its members are prepared to meet any onslaught, peaceful or violent, on the part of organized reaction. Their refusal to co-operate with the People's party is one evidence of their strengthened policy.

BERLIN, Nov. 19. (By The Associated Press.)—The assertions made by Premier Poincaré in the French Chamber of Deputies last week, that Germany had attempted evasion of her reparations obligations, was wasteful in administrative policies and was making efforts to conquer world markets, meet with emphatic refutation in an official communication issued to-day, in which the French Government is reminded that the payments made by Germany under the provisions of the Versailles Treaty total up to date 14,000,000,000 gold marks, of which it is declared the Entente has made due acknowledgment.

German Exports Small

The charge that Germany is carrying on a policy of reckless competition in an effort to win back her foreign trade is answered by the statement that German exports to-day are barely one-third the pre-war volume. Efforts to adjust export prices to a world market level, it is declared, failed because of the precipitate collapse in the mark.

Alleged excessive purchases by Germany in the United States are accounted for in German official quarters by the statement that the United States always has been Germany's chief source of supply for raw products and wheat, and that these commodities now constitute the great bulk of Germany's imports, notwithstanding the fact that most purchases are far below the former volume, especially as regards cotton.

It is asserted that the provisions of the peace treaty and their execution necessitated heavy increases in governmental employees, and the nationalization of the railways and the introduction of a centralized tax administration resulted in an increase in the number of federal employees. Notwithstanding the fact that the wages of these Federal employees are constantly being raised, the purchasing power of this money is only inferior when measured by the gold standard, but also is subjected to undulating depreciation.

Prosperity Is "Imagination"

The so-called scandalous prosperity of German industry is branded in the German reply as a produce of M. Poincaré's imagination. The weekly return of the Reichsbank shows a record currency increase during the second week of November, when 65,000,000 marks in new money were put in circulation.

Republic Truck Assets Set at $6,289,929.51

Liabilities Are $5,181,861.64, Receiver's Statement to Creditors Shows

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—Creditors of the Republic Motor Truck Company, Inc., whose plant is at Alma, Mich., to-morrow will receive a copy of the statement of the financial condition of the company as of September 23, 1922, which the Security Trust Company, of Detroit, appointed receiver for the truck company on that date, sent out on Saturday.

The assets of the company are fixed by the appraisers in the statement in the sum of $6,289,929.51, without any consideration being given to good will, shop rights, etc. The total liabilities to all classes of record creditors are given at $5,181,861.64. Two million five hundred thousand dollars of the company's liabilities are to holders of first mortgage gold notes scattered throughout the country. The items of the assets of the Republic company are so voluminous that they constitute a large volume filed with Elmer W. Voorhees, clerk of the United States District Court, where the receivership is pending.

The receiver's operations are limited principally to materials for service and repairs, although recently the trust company began the manufacture of trucks in a limited way. Officers of the company are negotiating with financial interests in the East for the reorganization of the company on some plan which will permit an early resumption of operations.

Negotiations have been completed by John McE. Bowman, president of the Bowman hotels, and William Candler, a business man of Atlanta, Ga., for the building in that city of a new hotel to be known as the Atlanta Biltmore. The new structure will contain 600 rooms and baths, with an apartment go to see him on this side of the ocean."

Mr. Kohlhaas was propped up in bed with pillows when his visitor entered his room.

"I'd like to hurry up and get well so I could run across and see you in France," Mr. Kohlhaas smiled happily. "Well, you hurry and come over," promised Clemenceau, "and I'll not die until you come."

Heartened by the visit Mr. Kohlhaas, as Clemenceau turned to go out of the room, called out: "Old Tiger, I think I'll be well in a week."

Before going Mr. Clemenceau had accepted an invitation to visit Potter Palmer, Mr. Kohlhaas's son-in-law, in Chicago.

Quitting the Biltmore the motor cars whizzed across Queensboro Bridge, through Long Island City, Flushing, Wheatley Hills, Jericho, Woodbury and Cold Spring Harbor to the 800-acre estate of Otto Kahn. The banker, in riding breeches, greeted his guest by showing him a copy of Ding's cartoon "Coming Over to Get Acquainted," published in The Tribune on Saturday, and the Tiger was delighted to see himself caricatured beside Uncle Sam. About the League of Nations he was discreetly silent.

Besides those in Clemenceau's party, the others at the Kahn luncheon table were Mr. and Mrs. Kahn, their daughter Margaret, their sons, Gilbert and Roger, and Miss Margaret and Miss Bernice Byrne, of 270 Park Avenue.

Borrowers Policeman's Pen

Soon after 2 o'clock the pilgrimage to Oyster Bay resumed. The last man got out of the motor car at the entrance to Young's Memorial Cemetery, his secretary carrying the wreath. About fifty persons trailed him up the path that leads to the Colonel's grave. On the summit of the hill about one hundred other persons were waiting.

Half way up the slope Clemenceau stopped short and began to bombard his secretary with French verbs and adjectives. By some unnamable neglect of some unmentionable creature there was no card on the wreath. Clemenceau bowed the fountain pen with which the motorcycle policeman Morgan is accustomed to write out "tickets" for traffic offenders. Unbuttoning his blue, sealskin-lined overcoat, the Tiger drew out a visiting card, and then, while Mr. and Mrs. Gibson and Colonel and Mrs. House waited, he wrote: "A la Memoire du Grand Theodore Roosevelt." On the card was inscribed "G. Clemenceau." He resumed his beautiful talking, pausing once more for a brief rest at the base of the sharp incline just below the grave.

The gate in the high iron fence that enclosed the cemetery, the Roosevelt grave was locked. Clemenceau tried the handle. Then he stood silent and looked through. His eyes moved back and forth as he read: "Theodore Roosevelt. Born October 3, 1858. Died January 6, 1919." Several minutes passed. He said nothing. Then he instructed the secretary to suspend the wreath on the gate handle. He stood silently for a few minutes more. Then he lifted his hat, a new gray fedora, turned and walked slowly away.

Visit Unexpected

The party then drove to Sagamore Hill, from the summit of which Theodore Roosevelt used to look out on that same sheet of salt water that is commanded by the hill on which he is buried. Apparently no one at the Roosevelt home had been informed that Mr. Clemenceau was coming to call.

The old Frenchman got out of the machine, mounted the steps and waited. Mrs. Gibson glanced about for the door-bell and then tapped with a gloved hand on the glass of the storm door. Clemenceau waited but a second and then stepped along the porch to a window and peered intently through the glass into the trophy room at the blue flag of the President of the United States, suspended above the fireplace. A few moments later he started on a tour of the outside of the house.

Mrs. Gibson and Colonel House followed him as if uncertain what to do, and then Archie Roosevelt, in golf knickerbockers and tennis shoes, hurried out. "I'm home," said the gentleman who figured so prominently in the Wilson Administration. Then he presented Mr. Clemenceau and every one entered the home. Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt and other members of the family were there. Clemenceau was deeply interested in everything that had belonged to Roosevelt and confided to Colonel House that his interest was in the environment that had produced so great an American.

The trip back to New York was accomplished at a much slower pace and all along the thirty-five miles Sunday motorists in fivers, in motorcycle side cars, in luxurious limousines, craned their necks for a glimpse of the man who presided in the Hall of Clocks at Versailles when the Germans signed the peace treaty. One highly painted young woman in a flapper caused the former Premier to lift a bushy brow when she raised her hand in greeting and called out "Howdy, Clem!"

As M. Clemenceau descended from the machine in front of the Gibson home, his host inquired what he would like for dinner.

"Sparrow wings and swallow tails," was the reply.

"I know where to get them," boasted the editor of "Life," and then went inside.

Before dinner, however, there were other callers—Melville E. Stone, for many years manager of The Associated Press; former Assistant Secretary of State Frank Polk and Norman Davis. Miss Anne Morgan had called earlier, before the Tiger's return.

M. Clemenceau is to be the luncheon guest of "The New York World" at the Ritz-Carlton to-day. Afterward he is to attend a reception in his honor given by the Franco-American Society. His speech to-morrow night at the Metropolitan Opera House, at which he will tell why he has come to the United States, is to be delivered, according to Colonel House, extemporaneously.

Luncheon Guests To-day

At the luncheon to-day Ralph Pulitzer, president of the Press Publishing Company, will be host. The other members of "The World" organization present will include F. I. Cobb, H. B. Swope, John O'Hagan, Joseph W. Lippmann, John F. Breshnan and John H. Tamm and H. F. Pollard, of "The Evening World."

State Chamber Reception

The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York announced yesterday that M. Clemenceau would be given a reception by the Chamber Wednesday at the chamber building, 65 Liberty Street. Commons Opens To-day; Stormy Session Looms

Speaker To Be Picked in Preparation for Launching Thursday; Lloyd George Considered Strong

Unemployed To Be Issue

Three Conservative Props of Coalition Believed in Line for Cabinet Posts

By Arthur S. Draper

From The Tribune's European Bureau

LONDON, Nov. 19.—With a Conservative government in full power for the first time in sixteen years and Laborites replacing Liberals as the official opposition, the House of Commons will assemble to-morrow for the swearing in of members and the election of the Speaker in preparation for the state opening of Parliament by the King on Thursday.

Although the new session will be brief, devoted wholly to the Irish treaty bill, all sorts of questions can be raised in the debate on the address, replying to the speech from the throne, and while "tranquillity" still is the government's slogan, this week's proceedings are likely to reveal the new House as anything but that.

Premier Bonar Law is expected to reconstruct his ministry soon, and it is generally believed he will seek to strengthen it by inviting East Bampfden, Austen Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne, three of the principal Conservative props of the Lloyd George coalition, to take office.

Labor Elects Chiefs To-morrow

The Labor members will meet Tuesday to elect officers. It is expected John R. Clynes will be re-elected chairman, with Ramsay MacDonald, one of the party's ablest parliamentarians, as chief whip. The Laborites are expected to push the unemployment problem to the forefront in the house, and with Ramsay MacDonald, Philip Snowden and Sidney Webb re-enforcing Clynes in the debate, they will have no difficulty in making a formidable issue of it.

The situation is being emphasized now by the presence of several thousands of London's unemployed, who have threatened to besiege Downing Street until Bonar Law concedes them an interview. Joined by many thousands of London's unemployed, they demonstrated this afternoon in Trafalgar Square. They are planning another monster demonstration for Wednesday night, on the eve of the state opening of Parliament, and they intend to send their delegation to the Prime Minister's residence following that.

It is the government's present intention to deal with unemployment administratively rather than by "new laws," but the Labor party delegation, which includes a large contingent of radicals, is likely to raise a loud protest unless a legislative program is presented.

Light on Liberals' Stand

Some light may be thrown in the debate this week on the extent to which the Liberals of both wings will co-operate with the Laborites in the opposition. This is bound to be affected, so far as the Georgians are concerned, by the fact many of the ex-Premier's staunchest lieutenants owe their seats to Conservative votes, and some of them are pledged to give general support to the Bonar Law government.

This rather loose alliance also complicates the movement looking toward reunion of the Asquithians and the Georgians, rumors of which are much in the air. Lloyd George has not yet shown his hand, and the anxiety with which all parties await the definition of his policy is significant of the spell which the Welshman still exercises upon the majority of the seats this time, the Liberals and Laborites combined polled the majority of the popular vote, and in the view of many political experts here Lloyd George will attempt to capitalize that and play a farseeing game for the eventual leadership of a Liberal-Laborite coalition. It is argued he is traditionally a radical, and now that his center party idea has been exploded he will revert to his former political faith.

Fear Steamship Wh'ch Asked Aid Hit Iceberg

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The condition of the steamship Congo, which last night sent out an S.O.S. call for assistance, was a matter of concern in maritime circles here to-night. During the last week several ships reported having sighted an iceberg in the vicinity of the position given by the Congo in her message. The Comptroller is to be reported at one time 1200 feet high and 100 feet long, but later messages described it as 100 feet high and 60 feet long.

The Congo gave her position as latitude 42 50, longitude 45. It was uncertain whether the distressed vessel was the Portuguese vessel of that name, reported as sailing from Cape Town September 22, for Mossamedes, Portuguese West Africa, or the Congo, of Italian registry, last reported at Port Gentil, September 23.

The naval radio station here was unable to learn further details of the ship's plight.

Ward Case Hearing to Go Over Until To-morrow

The hearing in the Walter Ward case, set for this morning before Justice Murcheson in White Plains, will be adjourned by agreement until to-morrow morning, as the postponement of the Stillman case hearing in Poughkeepsie from last Friday to this morning necessitates the presence of John E. Mack, special prosecutor of Ward, in Dutchess County. Formal motion for the Ward adjournment will be made by associate counsel for the defense this morning.

Former Justice Isaac N. Mills will argue his motion for the dismissal of the murder indictment against Ward to-morrow, urging the failure of the prosecution to set a date for the trial in support of his demand.

Would Have City Candidates Named By Voters' Petition

Alderman Harvey's Proposed Charter Thus Seeks to Do A Way With Political Influence

A proposed new charter, drawn up by Alderman George U. Harvey, of Flushing, will be submitted to the Charter Commission to-day, it was learned yesterday. Harvey represents the 85th Aldermanic District, comprising the Flushing and Jamaica sections of Queens. The proposed draft, which contains nine sections, provides for the election of the Mayor, Borough Presidents and Aldermen for a term of four years. The Comptroller is to be given a six-year term of office.

To do away with the intervention of political parties candidates will be selected by nominating petitions, filed with the Board of Elections, which will mail a sample ballot to every qualified voter in the city. Candidates running for re-election will be distinguished from those running for the first time. Judges of the city courts, except city magistrates, are to be appointed by the Governor and to hold office during good behavior. City magistrates will be appointed by a committee of Supreme Court Justices and are to hold office for twelve years.

An innovation in government contained in the proposed charter is the election of twenty-four "honorary men" who shall hold office for four years without pay. They are to have supervision of the city offices and their recommendations will be considered by the Board of Aldermen. They can listen in on the aldermanic meetings but have no vote. They will be chosen from the big business men of the city.

The budget is to be handled by a committee of three, who hold office for six years. One member is appointed by the Governor, one by the Mayor and one by the honor men of the city. The civil service reforms are gone into at great length.

Red Cross Asked to Rebuild Hospitals in Chilean Towns

SANTIAGO, Nov. 19.—The American Ambassador, William N. Collier, has been informed by the president of the national relief committee that the most acceptable form in which American Red Cross relief to victims of the recent earthquake could be rendered would be the reconstruction of hospitals in the towns devastated by the earthquake and the establishment of first aid stations in the small villages.

Even the Orient Now cleans teeth this new way

Do you know that careful people of some fifty nations are now brushing teeth in a new way? And largely by dental advice?

If you have not learned what that method means, make this test and see.

They combat film

This new way fights the film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. It absorbs stains, then forms dirty coats. Tartar is based on film.

It also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Most tooth troubles are due to film. So are most cloudy teeth. Under old methods very few escaped them, for no ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat film.

New methods now

Dental science has long sought to solve the problem of that film. Two methods have been found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now dentists the world over are advising their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two great film combatants.

Fights acids, too

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there

You see new beauty everywhere

Now millions use this method. You see the results wherever you look, in shining teeth which give to people new beauty and new charm. Those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth. They mean to those people a new dental era.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscid film. See how teeth whiten as the film coats disappear. This will be a revelation. Mark it now. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

The Season

Things are never so bad as they look and they might always be worse. This is not to say that the reverse of the proposition may not be equally true. Concerning things as they are, however, we have as a nation particular reasons to join in thanksgiving, the recent elections notwithstanding.

Admitting the particular case of the farmer, the country nevertheless must profit by the fine crops. Even the diminished cotton crop will bring prices far beyond the highest estimates. The buying power of the country is good and getting better, particularly as represented by the large retail stores and as reflected by such an item as $35,000,000 estimated sales of automobiles this year in Kansas alone. There has been extraordinarily rapid recovery from the post-war depression. Consider the financial condition of the Federal Reserve banks. With respect to immigration, regard the proposals to increase the admissible quotas of foreigners.

Unemployment—perhaps idleness—is at or better than a normal figure. The public utilities show as a barometer the excellent conditions in manufacturing industries where light, heat and power are used. The steel mills are working at 80 per cent capacity, and since 1914 having increased capacity by 50 per cent the present measure of output is therefore twenty per cent over pre-war figures. So we might go on indicating the things that the American people have reason to be thankful for.

Opposition and dissent and pessimism are always with us, but read the signs of the times, which you cannot do if you keep your head bent and your eyes on the ground.
